

I am a test smith

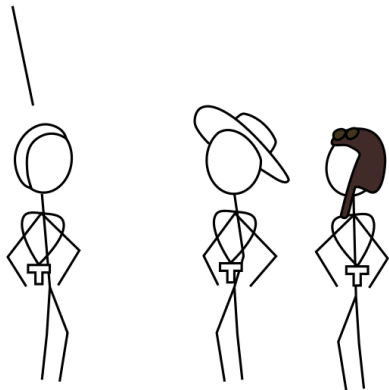

The word "smith" comes from old English and used as blacksmith, copper smith, iron smith, etc.

One original source of the word comes From Denmark as "smed".

*The Danish word "smed" comes from
"smedig", which means "agile".*

It is because, before copper smithing there was Flint stone smithing, which required the smith to be very agile or in Danish "smedig".

*So, I am a Test Smith, because I work with agile testing:
agile → smedig → smed → smith*
