

Love in 5th dimensions

I recently re-watched the Interstellar movie, since it came on Netflix.

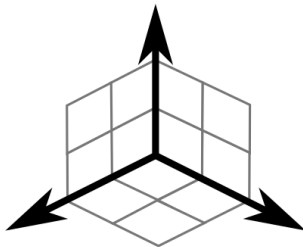

Me too and I actually liked the bookshelf scene this time.

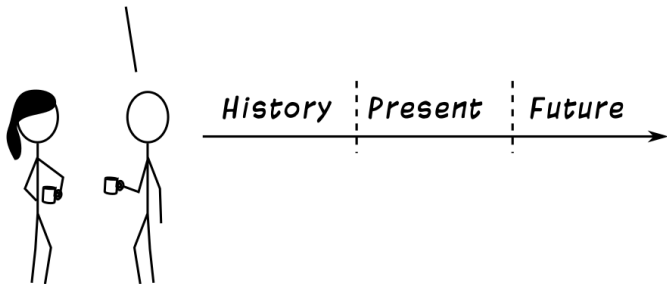

Knowing the Future, makes you prepare for it and change it for the better, but it requires 5 dimensions.

The First three dimensions are width, height, and depth.

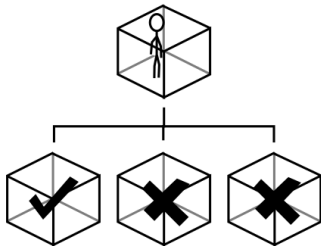

The 4th is time with past, present, and future.

The 5th is choose with a multitude of future that we can choose from. Just like the bookshelf represent.

What about love?

Our choice is based on love:

- 1) love For ourselves, so we can survive and act*
- 2) love For our children, so they can live and be happy*
- 3) love of our ancestors, so their sacrifice that gave us what we have today, will not go in vain*

Indeed love transcends to the 5th dimension

